

Task 1. Identifying Hazards and Risks

- Activity: Sharing experience on the most significant hazards and risks where you work.
- Aims: To understand how hazards give rise to risks in your own workplace.
- To think about the tools that safety reps can use to identify risks.
- Task: In your group, appoint one person to give feedback from your discussion.
- 1) Briefly give an example of a significant hazard where you work to the rest of the group. What are the risks that it causes? Are the risks controlled?
 - 2) Is there any one in your group who has used one of the mapping techniques or has surveyed members at work to find out about problems? What did they do? What was the result?
 - 3) What other sources of information do you find useful for finding out about hazards and risks that may affect members where you work?
